

This document shows the outcome of the Parental RSE Consultation conducted in June 2021.

Please read 'Understanding Relationships, Sex and Health Education at your child's secondary school: a guide for parents' sent out with this consultation. How confident do you feel as a Parent/Carer to discuss with your child the changing nature of relationships they will experience as they grow older?

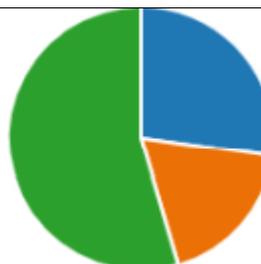

How confident do you feel as a Parent/Carer to discuss with your child how to monitor their health as they grow older? (e.g. puberty, smoking etc.)

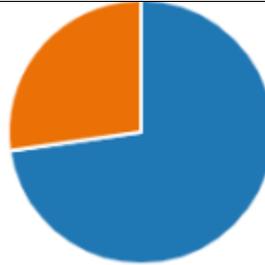

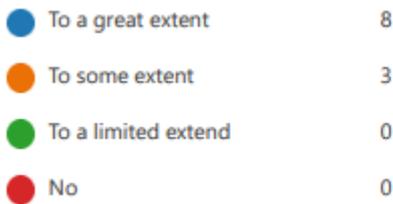

How confident do you feel as a Parent/Carer to discuss with your child sex education? (e.g. contraception)

As a parent/carer, would it interest you to receive support from the school in the form of resources / online training to help with conversations in the home surrounding these topics?

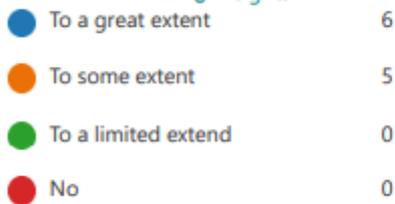

Please read the schools RSE Policy sent out to Parents/Carers with the link to this consultation. Do you feel the RSE Policy communicates the schools commitment to RSE education clearly?

As parents/carers do you understand the 'right to withdrawal' outlined in the policy in relation to RSE education?

Insights

Is there any part of the RSE Policy you feel is unclear? If yes, please give details.

10 respondents (91%) answered No for this question.

None No policy

No, I read and understand the policy.

Please read the St Edward's RSE Curriculum Outline document sent out with this consultation. Do you feel this document clearly communicates when students will study each part of the RSE curriculum?

I do not have any concern.

I think the answer is 'no' and validates a biblical model of relationships. The media are increasingly discriminating against the biblical model and make strong and untrue accusations as to how Christians treat others with differing opinions. Your policy looks good though and seems to validate this as an 'ok' expression. Thank you.

Smoking and contraception

Are there any aspects of RSE education that you feel culturally are important for our students and community to focus on?

Students (45%) answered No for this question.

Yes

Not at the moment.

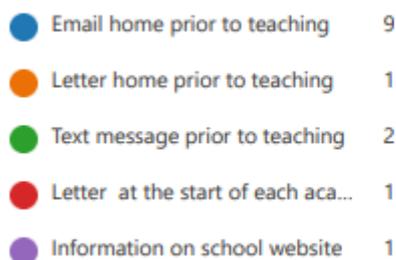

Yes, it is the culture is important and they need to know how to respect their self.

With such a multicultural school, the roots and differences in how we treat each other and what we see to be acceptable might be squeezed in. For example, eye contact may be right in a situation for one person, yet culturally inappropriate for someone from a different place.

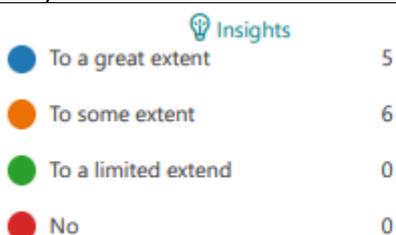

Importance of family

Smoking

Before RSE topics are taught, we communicate this with parents/carers. How would you prefer communications regarding upcoming RSE topics too be shared with parents/carers?

Do you feel the curriculum reflects the Christian distinctiveness of the school?

Do you feel more could be done to reflect the Christian distinctiveness of the school in the RSE Policy? If yes, please give details.

Yes, but I think school and the church together can do something more.

No. I am glad that the biblical model of sex only within marriage is actually being taught alongside all the other views.

Thank you for taking part in this Parent/Carer consultation. Do you have any further comments for us to consider in this review of the RSE Policy and curriculum?

Not at the moment.

No thank you.

Having heard true horror stories in other places of what 'must' be taught...with no tolerance for even hinting at a biblical opinion, I am relieved to see that the policy and Jigsaw programme both support a humanitarian and tolerant approach. The Christian underpinning of the school will, no doubt, assist when dealing with some of the more contentious topics. Clarity on the difference between holding an opinion (maybe faith based) does not then discriminate the person by assuming they are then 'bigoted' towards someone else who holds an opposing opinion. The compassion and respect that underpins the school will be key to this. Thank you.

Thanks for time spent on discussion and documents.

I also feel as a single female parent with two boys that it isn't just my confidence in speaking to my children but also their ability to feel comfortable too
